

NORTH TO SOUTH SURREY WALK

The North to South Surrey walk goes from the most northerly point in Surrey to the most southerly point. Surrey means the 1973 county whose boundaries were formed when Greater London was created and Surrey lost Kingston, but gained Middlesex.

Northernmost Surrey is at Colnbrook at GR 030771 at the end of Laurel Close. The walk starts nearby at the Star and Garter (closed) on the old Bath Road. The southernmost point is at the edge of Haslemere at GR 914312 at the end of Chase Lane on the edge of Blackdown. More conveniently, the walk finishes at the Crown and Cushion by Haslemere railway station.

The distance as the crow flies is 29 miles, but by the route outlined is 41 miles.

This walk from North to South shows the variety of Surrey's countryside. It starts by the flooded gravel pits and interesting bird life in earshot of Heathrow, by the river Thames to Runnymede. On past the Air Forces memorial at Cooper's Hill, through popular and well maintained Windsor Park and Sunningdale to reach the wilds of Chobham Common. Then through mixed pleasant fields, golf and horsiculture to cross the Hogs Back to Compton to the West of Guildford.

Some interesting paths lead to Eashing and the edge of Milford, then by wooded commons and a hidden valley to the woods and summit of Gibbet Hill and down into Haslemere.
