Although fewer walkers entered the 2nd Coal Tax Kanter, 39 completed the 18 miles route as compared with 21 on the first event: - maybe the result of a late cut-off point and the exceptionally dry conditions under foot. Apologies to those on the long route who discovered that the grid ref to check point 14 was for the wrong railway tunnel. Despite this most of you managed to give the right answer! Over 200 coal tax posts still circle London but those to the north east and west of the area used for the two events head through suburbia to cross the Thames, so next years November Kanter will have a new theme and a new venue - see you then,
