Another Winter Tanners moves from anticipation, to perspiration, to the history books. The weather was benign with balmy temperatures and only a small amount of rain at the close to help clean off the mud. Was it the promise of fine weather that bought out the army of on the day entrants? If Marks and Spencer had queues as long at their January sale they would have been happy. (There is no truth in the rumour that Surrey Group is now so rich that they might be making a takeover bid for the beleaguered Store Group-Treasurer).

Countryside Page.

If any nature lovers amongst you saw something in the woods collecting paper this was not the lost Womble, but our John who had an accident with the time sheets: which escaped. Fortunately they were all recaptured albeit a little damp.

More irrelevant anecdotes.

Now wasn't there a song, "There's a hole in my water container, my water container, dear Reg a hole...., or something like that. Emergency at checkpoint 2: water running low on the arid slopes of Leith Hill. Off I went with said container to try and get a top up at the pub in Cold Harbour. "You are not having any water here", Landlady of Pub. I don't think the pub was called the George and DRAGON. Perhaps I had laid on the, 'hundreds of walkers dying of thirst story', a bit too thick. Perhaps it was as well she did not realise that I was desperate enough to have bought a dozen bottles of Evian water. A kindly householder saved the day, although I did have to hold them in conversation for a long time, as a gallon leaked out for every two that went in.

Now there is the matter of the 4 cans of Grolsch I found in my car (When it was acting as The Finish). I was not sure if this was a gift to raise my temperature, still sub normal after the mornings chilly check-in, or lost property. If lost property

I would like to know how many cans the owner had in their rucksack. It certainly beats waterproofs and a woolly hats. Anyway to avoid dispute I drank it with thanks.

Thanks again to those who contributed to the National Trust.

Results and Certificates enclosed. Now same day entrants may find they have a funny name, or if they live in Dun Roamin, I have misread it as Dung Reeking. If have made a notable error, let me know and I will prepare a replacement certificate. And will the person who appears to reside at Bagend, The Shire, no post code, please collect their results personally as a small ring found on the route is believed to be theirs Or it could be the ring pull from a can of Grolsch, hic!

Well done to all those who took part. Given the positive comments I received about the route, the route description and the tea at Tanners Hatch I hope you are now Tanner's addicts and will come and see us next January for the 29th new route.
