CARY

At last it happened - a Winter Tanners in winter weather. After three years in which the event was held in almost Spring-like conditions it approached something near to what was originally envisaged. Although it was not much below freezing and there was no blizzard the underfoot surface of frozen snow, shallow drifts and icy puddles made the going rather slower than normal for most of the fifty or so that took part in the walk. Despite this John Harrison completed the route in an amazing 6.42 which is pretty fast for the Summer event.

Approximately 55 hardy souls set off at 08.10 from Leatherhead to be joined later by Graham Peddie and "Dusty". The majority managed to finish, a few retired or cut short the course, and some appear to be still trudging around because we havn't heard from them.

As most Tanners war athoners know the Winter event is or was basically a survey for the main walk in the Summer. However to provide a brief route guide for the January walk an even earlier survey now has to be done. Last year the chief route plotter became indisposed and unfortunately the route was survey was not completed as a result. Thus whilst some sections were adequately described others were a little sparse in their wording. Added to this one "R" was really an "L" and one "L" was an "R" in disquise. Consequently, as far as we know, not one person walked precisely the intended route. One area of confusion was in the vicinity of Ockley where walkers approached the Bovril stop from three separate compass points. Special mention must be made of six years old Andrew Folkes who all but completed the course with his father Anthony, and those that got cold feet whilst doling out hot drinks at the two checkpoints.
